Cultural policy is the government actions, laws and programs that regulate, protect, encourage and financially (or otherwise) support activities related to the arts and creative sectors.

“The one thing which is absolutely certain is that if we are forced into a mixed economy patronage overnight in the arts we are doomed to failure. If cuts are made many of the companies will have disappeared and there will be nothing to support by the time private patronage has substantially increased”

Sir John Tooley, General Administrator
ROH, 1979

Crisis in the arts
is both perpetual and endlessly new.

“For the master’s tools will never dismantle the master’s house. They may allow us temporarily to beat him at his own game, but they will never enable us to bring about genuine change.”

“To be truly radical is to make hope possible rather than despair convincing.”

Raymond Williams
