2026 FESTIVAL GUIDE

MHANI.ORG

Welcome To Festival 2026

We are delighted to present our 13th annual regional Mental Health Arts NI Festival programme and fringe events for 2026. It's been an exciting time. We have relocated to, and are delighted to be working with, the Duncairn Arts Centre and 174 Trust, thrilled about our new and evolving collaborations, harnessing creative partnerships, local, regional and international. We have expanded our team and rebranded!

We have launched exciting new initiatives including the Hidden Narratives and New Works Commission; we are indebted to Arts Council NI and the Baring Foundation, with support from the Mental Health Foundation. We have established a Research & Development Panel, thanks to our collaboration with Research Fellows at Queen's University and Ulster University Belfast School of Art. We have rebranded from NI Mental Health Arts Festival to Mental Health Arts NI. Our festival remains a key event in our annual programme and we continue to plan opportunities for collaboration across NI with our Arts Managers across Local Authorities all year round. We are more than just a festival—we are a movement! And we are on the move! Thanks to Rock Choir and Translink we are planning ongoing opportunities to celebrate creativity in motion across the region and Island. We hope you can join us on our journey.

Together with our artists, creatives, venues, sponsors, stakeholders and festival partners, we bring you an exciting regional programme of events, virtual and face to face, demonstrating our commitment to challenging stigma across NI. We are celebrating artists emerging, established and internationally renowned from across artforms that are eclectic, prolific and engaging. We have a diverse programme of visual and performing arts. We continue to build upon our previous success, with our dedicated Symposia in both Derry-Londonderry and in Belfast, both learning regions, where we have created forums for compassionate dialogue and creative exchange. We present talks, tours and workshops, plus poetry, spoken word, comedy, film, music, and so much more! Our programme includes creative practice that continues to challenge stigma with compassion and dignity and provokes debate, providing insights into how artists continue to channel their own lived experience to inspire others.

We are more than just a festival—we are a movement!

We are thrilled to be joined by internationally renowned Prof Daisy Fancourt, Professor of Epidemiology University College London, who gave us an exclusive interview to celebrate our Festival, reflecting upon her compelling research highlighted in her latest book Art Cure. We are indebted to Northern Visions TV for making this possible.

Our theme this year is 'Belonging,' a feeling or sense of being accepted, valued, connected to people or place. A fundamental human need. You are welcomed as your true self in a group, community, or environment. It is a sense of holding an integral place in a system, family, school, work, community or a physical setting. True belonging is not having to hide aspects of your identity or conform to expectations to fit in. It is vital to feel connected to others, this gives life purpose and meaning.

Many of us know first-hand from lived experience the power of the arts to provide a sense of connection, a safe sanctuary, a place to belong and grow, that can help transform ourselves as well as our communities. The arts can provide a catalyst for change.

We are thrilled to continue to build upon our profile of film with local, regional and international collaborations thanks to Nerve Centre Derry-Londonderry, Sobriety Films and Voices with Impact in Canada. We are proud to be proactive participants in the growth and development of the NI Creative Health Network.

We welcome ongoing partnerships and are committed to lifelong learning with the Scottish Mental Health Arts Festival, Minding Creative Minds and Mental Health Ireland and many more across the UK and Ireland, supporting the professional development of artists. Exciting collaborations evolving with new venues include the Harrison Hotel, Belfast School of Art, Ecologies of Care, and public initiatives with Picstory Belfast.

We warmly welcome you to join us and to reflect upon the pivotal role of creativity, self-expression, and arts & culture in helping us make sense of a chaotic world. We invite you to embrace and celebrate your own creativity and self-expression, participate, appreciate, and celebrate the creativity of others in a festival that welcomes opportunities to challenge and be inspired and experiences for nourishment and growth.

We wish to express our heartfelt thanks to all our team at MHANI:

A word from our funders and supporters

The Rock Choir is proud to support Mental Health Arts NI. The festival, held each May, champions mental well-being, combats stigma, and brings communities together through the arts all year round.

Rock Choir UK & Ireland

It is great to see the MHANI go from strength to strength and we at The Baring Foundation are pleased to also support its year round work in our joint funding with ACNI.

David Cutler,
The Baring Foundation

We are proud to support Mental Health Arts NI through Arts Council National Lottery funding. We look forward to another series of high-quality, innovative arts programming, which supports our vision to have a sector which is recognised as essential to creativity and well-being.

From visual and performing arts to forums, talks, music, yoga and more across Belfast and Derry/Londonderry, the programme promises to be another lineup of beneficial events. We wish all the team and attendees a truly enjoyable and successful programme.

Patricia Lavery, Head of Community and Education, Arts Council of Northern Ireland

I am so excited for Mental Health Arts NI's 2026 Festival. It presents an amazing opportunity to bring people together and consider the vital role the arts can play in supporting mental health. It has been an honour to participate and I hope the festival catalyses important new conversations and continues to raise public awareness.

Professor Daisy Fancourt, Author of Art Cure

Minding Creative Minds (MCM) is pleased to support [Mental Health Arts Northern Ireland] this spring, and in doing so we remind those attending and working in the Creative Sector in Northern Ireland, MCM is a support programme for creative sector workers on the Island of Ireland. You can see our free and confidential service offering at mindingcreativeminds.ie. We are your tribe and we wish all the team at [MHANI] the very best of luck with this year's festival.

Minding Creative Minds

The Scottish Mental Health Arts Festival (SMHAF) is delighted to be partnering with [MHANI] on its programme this year, and we're looking forward to sharing some of the learning from our own festival in its 20th year, as well as our new Performing Anxiety resource which supports people to make new creative work addressing mental health.

Andrew Eaton-Lewis,
Arts Programme
Officer, Mental Health Foundation

I am delighted to support the Mental Health Arts NI as it enters its 13th year of making a vital contribution to our city.

It is more important than ever that we talk openly about mental health. One of my main priorities as Lord Mayor is to ensure that everyone in Belfast feels part of the journey and that no-one is left behind and mental health forms a huge part of this.

This festival offers a truly inclusive way to do just that, using visual and performing arts, poetry, comedy, music, and performance to reach people from across the city.

This year's theme of 'belonging' really speaks to the power of the arts providing a space where everyone feels welcome and can use their voice in a safe and secure way.

The festival also highlights the arts as a force for good, bringing our communities together and encouraging us to openly share our stories.

The Lord Mayor of Belfast City Council, Councillor Tracey Kelly

As Mayor of Derry City and Strabane District Council, I am delighted to offer my full support to the Mental Health Arts NI as it celebrates its 13th landmark year. This festival has become a vital cornerstone of our cultural calendar, providing a brave and beautiful space for those with lived experience to share their stories through the power of the visual and performing arts. In a year where I have chosen to focus my own Mayoral office on mental health awareness and suicide prevention, I applaud MHANI for its tireless work in challenging stigma and advocating for compassionate policy change. I want to extend my best wishes to everyone attending the Symposium that is being organised to celebrate the resilience, creativity, and community spirit that exists across the North.

Mayor of Derry City and Strabane District Council, Councillor Ruairí McHugh.

Festival Programme:

Our Symposia

This year our MHANI Symposia return to Belfast and Derry–Londonderry. The Symposia take place at the Nerve Centre Derry–Londonderry on Friday 8th and Friday 15th May at the Duncairn, Belfast. We are indebted to the Mayors of Belfast and Derry–Londonderry for their support.

Our symposia feature keynote speakers from a diverse range of contexts including the arts, mental health, wellbeing, voluntary and community sector, and education, including significant learning from those with lived experience informing academic research.

The symposia will provide challenging and enlightening presentations, forums for dialogue and creative exchange, challenge stigma, and celebrate the power of creativity, self-expression and the arts upon our mental health and wellbeing. Our symposia provide insights that deal compassionately and intelligently with the stigma associated with talking about our mental health.

We look forward to sharing details of both symposia and guest speakers will be available on our website.

GETTING

Getting Support:

Poor mental health can impact everyone, it is important to know that you are not alone. There are various support services available.

Normally your GP should be the first point of contact if you have concerns about your mental health that won't go away – or if you have thoughts about suicide.

You can call the NHS on 111 and speak to their mental health team, this is available 24 hours.

You may prefer to seek other support.

Lifeline

0808 808 800 | lifelinehelpline.info
